A message from the President of the Organizing Committee

Dear Colleagues,

Prototype research of social interest is what we wish to present. Quality versus quantity in papers from all medical specialties, medical pharmacology and technology.

One way to improve quality of our research is to communicate with other colleagues, from all medical specialties in order to discuss and evaluate our scientific work. This is what we also wish to have in our Meetings.

Medicine is considered the most important science as also Hippocrates said. Medicine offers pleasure to medical practitioners and comfort to patients.

We shall have a very interesting Workshop on Medical Statistics, on Thursday October 3, 2019.

We hope that International Medical Olympiads will spread widely to many other countries so that more medical knowledge can be offered to our suffering fellowmen. It has been known that medical contests were held in ancient Efessos, Asia Minor and in other ancient Greek cities.

We very much depend on our Medical Advisors which according to our constitution meet during the Olympiads and make useful suggestions for improving the overall organization of the Olympiads. The suggestions of our Advisors who met during the previous Olympiad were summed into 7 rules which we all try to imply. You may find these rules on page 3 of this Booklet.

On Sunday morning October 6, all participants and friends are requested to join in a daily excursion to an important archaeological site and museum in Amfipolis, to the birthplace or Aristotle, Stagira, and to Stavros, Chalkidiki. A discussion-lunch will be included.

We welcome you all and hope that you will experience a useful and pleasant stay during the 5th International Medical Olympiad.

The President of the Organizing Committee
Philip C. Grammaticos
Seven rules suggested by the Advisors, standing at present for better organizing the Olympiads

1. Homepage. All information about the forthcoming 5th International Medical Olympiad will be included in the homepage of our Association (www.medolympicus.gr). This homepage will be renewed with new information on time.

2. International Educational Points. It’s a great pleasure that we obtained twenty (20) EACCME educational points for those MD colleagues who will participate in the Olympiad.

3. Financial Benefits. We shall provide financial benefits to young colleagues, colleagues from developing countries and those with high cost travel expenses.

4. Special Sessions. It has been suggested to organize special sessions, before or after the main programme of oral presentations like: a) A Workshop about Medical Statistics (it has been organized by Prof S. Sharma and colleagues). b) Organize presentations on “how to” and/or “why” on practical subjects of social interest. c) Satellite sessions can be organized with or without the collaboration or sponsorship of pharmaceutical firms or Institutions.

5. Younger Colleagues. Try to communicate with younger colleagues through various local Medical Societies or by personal contact, in order to inform them of the benefits of the International Medical Olympiads and invite them to participate. Advisors may be very helpful on this goal. Younger colleagues will also be encouraged to participate in the above special sessions, guided by senior colleagues, to the Organizing Committee and in other parts of the programme. Younger colleagues may have financial support as mentioned above.

6. Constitutional Advisors. The constitutional Advisors are very important in organizing the International Medical Olympiads and represent their Countries. Their kind, voluntary contribution aims to support the submission of original papers of social interest and to inform colleagues from their Countries of the benefits of the Olympiads. Advisors may also wish to propose to the Organizing Committee certain distinguished colleagues to deliver the main lecture of the Meeting and also may evaluate the papers submitted from their Country. Advisors may suggest the chair-persons of the Meeting and also suggest the best papers to receive awards. Advisors may participate in the Organizing Committee.

7. A Sponsored Competition on a Special Subject. To encourage sponsors, Individuals, Institutions or Pharmaceutical Firms to sponsor under their name (like: the John Smith’s award) a competition of original papers of social interest. Subjects of this competition like: Alzheimer’s Dementia, Lymphomas, Nanoparticles, Genetics etc. will be chosen by the Sponsor. There will be a high financial prize for the winners of this contest and a contribution to our Association for organizing the event.
